a slice of the big apple

written and photographed by donna paul

Move over, mighty Manhattan. Brooklyn, one of New York City's rough-and-tumble boroughs, is luring shoppers on the hunt for great bargains and homegrown home fashion finds.

Several blocks away, Mark Naylor operates Modern Living Supplies (269 Berry St.). Oak and walnut cabinets and coffee and dining tables resemble pricier mid-century versions but are custom-made for $800–$3,500, depending upon size. Here, I also find a quirky collection of vintage (1960s) Swedish and Italian posters.
